

The outcome for Veronica

Rather than been re-examined for a third time by those individuals, I registered for a PhD by published works with my current employer and had a successful viva. I have now graduated. I am very happy to put this whole episode behind me and hope that no-one else has a similar experience.